

caps could be connected to either side of shunt, im not sure how it's implemented here