The Colorado Buffaloes face the Washington State Cougars Saturday night on the Palouse. After winning four straight conference games after sweeping the Bay Area schools last week, Colorado lost to Washington earlier this week 80-84 in one of the more surprising upsets this season in the Conference of Champions as the Huskies were previously 0-7 in league play. The Buffaloes look to bounce back against the Cougars who started the season 9-1 but have lost four straight PAC-12 games after a 71-56 home loss to Utah on Thursday.

Deep Colorado Offense

Despite the hiccup against Washington, Colorado has quietly been playing some of the best basketball in the country. McKinley Wright IV is making his case for PAC-12 player of the year as the senior point guard is the reigning conference player of the week. While Colorado is unranked in the national polls, they are 16th in both the NCAA NET rankings and KenPom rankings as Wright leads them by averaging 14.9 points and 5.8 assists per game. Wright will need to bounce back after the Washington defense held him in check as he scored just 12 points on 12 shots while missing all four of his three-point attempts.
