

[WatchESPN] Packers at Buccaneers Live Streams HD 24 Jan 2021

Sunday at Lambeau Field at 3:05 p.m. ET, the Green Bay Packers and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers will grapple for the NFC championship and a ticket to the Super Bowl. The Packers are out to keep their six-game home win streak alive.

This should be a fascinating game, so let's break things down.

How to watch

Date: Sunday, Jan. 24 | Time: 3:05 p.m. ET

Location: Lambeau Field (Green Bay, Wisconsin)

TV: Fox | Stream: fuboTV (Try for free)

Follow: CBS Sports App

In that week 6 match-up in Tampa, Brady's Buccs beat up on the Packers, 38-10. Rodgers was sacked four times and threw two interceptions while compiling a passer rating of 35.4, his lowest of the season. Rodgers only threw five picks all year and ended the regular season with a league-high, 121.5 passer rating. Brady did throw two touchdowns in the match-up, but the star of the game was Buccs' running back, Ronald Jones II who rushed for 113 yards and two touchdowns.

Can the Bucs jump out to an early lead again this time, if they simply run Leonard Fournette and/or Aaron Jones down the Packers' throats? The Rams tried to do it with Cam Akers, but they fell behind because their defense allowed two touchdowns and a field goal on Green Bay's first three drives of the game. They were able to keep Akers involved the rest of the way, but once you go down by two scores, your whole offensive rhythm is thrown out of whack.